CHINESE DEFY JAP ORDER TO REMOVE TROOPS

Only Technicality of International Law Stands in Way of War

MORE TROOPS RUSHED

Diplomats Disagree as to Whether Japanese Act Constitutes Act of War

Washington, May 9—Only a technicality of international law stands today between the military reality of war and the diplomatic fiction of peace in the Orient.

Neither China nor Japan has formally declared war, but 70,000 troops of the two powers are in and enroute to the Tsinan zone which has already reported casualties on both sides.

Unconcealed defiance by the Chinese Nationalist troops of the 24-hour Japanese ultimatum demanding withdrawal from the vital Tsinan area has left the armed forces of the two nations sole arbiters of the gravest crisis in China since the days of the Boxer uprisings, more than a quarter of a century ago.

16,000 Troops Enroute

A new Japanese division of 16,000 troops is enroute from Nagoya, Japan to Tsingtao, key port of Shantung Province, in which approximately 10,000 troops of Nippon already are in service.

Japan has served notice upon Chiang Kai Shek, Nationalist generalissimo, that no further negotiation will be conducted between the army commanders at Tsinan, the scene of clashes during the last four days.

All communications from Tsinan are in the hands of the Japanese, the Chinese wireless station there having been destroyed by Japanese artillery fire.

Diplomats Disagree

Whether Japan's iron hand on the vital railroad constitutes an act of war against China is a question on which diplomats disagree. Those who favor Japanese occupation of the entire province of Shantung, with its 40,000,...

FLIERS IN PHILLY ON GOOD-WILL TOUR

Crew of Bremen Greeted by Cheers of Several Hundred Spectators

Philadelphia, May 9—Greeted by the cheers of several hundred spectators the German-Irish aviators in the F-13, sister ship of the Bremen, arrived over the Philadelphia Navy Yard Airport at 11:40 a. m. today. The fliers circled the field several times before attempting a landing. They landed safely at 11:41 o'clock.

The crew of the Bremen left Curtiss Field at 10:40 o'clock for Philadelphia on the first leg of their scheduled good-will tour of the United States and Canada.

Mrs. Koehl, Mrs. Fitzmaurice and little Patsy Fitzmaurice remained in New York.

Captain Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice, who piloted the Bremen across the Atlantic, were at the controls of the F-13 when it departed. In the cabin, monocle wedged in his eye, sat the smiling Baron Von Huenefeld. Also aboard was Richard R. Blythe, personal representative of the fliers, and a fifth man identified as the chief of the party.

HOOVER SHOWS RESENTMENT WHEN QUIZZED

Secretary Comes Close To Defying Senate Group on Campaign Dates

REVEALS ANGER, TEMPER

Escapes Being in Contempt by Promising To Furnish Data Later

Washington, May 9—Showing open resentment at the trend of his examination, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover today came close to defying the Senate presidential campaign funds committee while testifying about his race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Hoover resented the committee's action in questioning him about unfriendly campaign reports and constantly evidenced traces of anger and temper. He twice refused to reveal the name of a Senator with whom he talked about his West Virginia campaign, but escaped being in contempt of the committee by saying he would try to furnish the information later.

In Sharp Contrast

The secretary's attitude was in sharp contrast to that shown by other presidential candidates, but before he left the stand he explained he felt the committee was right in investigating "slanderous reports" which attacked him.

Hoover said he had spent nothing personally in his campaign and that neither he nor his family had contributed any amount to his race for the Republican nomination.

Secretary Hoover told the Committee today that he personally has spent nothing in his race for the Republican nomination. He was asked to tell about his expenditures and the "scope of his campaign."

"On the expenditure side, I have had no personal expenditures with the exception perhaps of telephone calls and other odds and ends," said Hoover. "I have made no personal contribution to the campaign."

Hoover said a committee headed by ex-Representative James Good, of Iowa, had charge of his campaign.

Ten candidates have been examined thus far in the inquiry and after Hoover is heard, the committee will take the testimony of Senator James E. Watson, Republican of Indiana, former Senator Atlee Pomerene, Democrat of Ohio, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, Republican of Illinois, and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democrat of New York. The committee may go to New York City tomorrow to hear Smith, having set a precedent by visiting Baltimore yesterday to get the testimony of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, told the committee late yesterday he had spent but $1,500 in his campaign to date. He said he instructed his campaign managers to take no contributions from individuals or corporations interested in legislation.

Gypsies Face Police Here After Man Is Rubbed and Robbed During Treatment

Band of 41 Released After Silas Baer, Caledonia, Is Unable To Identify Girl Alleged To Have Relieved Him of Note and Bank Deposit Slips

The curative powers of gypsy "rub doctors" was demonstrated late yesterday afternoon when a dusky lass rubbed away a promissory note for $1,250 and bank deposit slips for approximately $250 more while presumably attempting to relieve Silas Baer, 65, of Caledonia, an invalid, of a pain in his back.

Noticing Mr. Baer, supported by two canes, standing on the front porch of his home, the alleged healer left the caravan of nine automobiles with which she was traveling and offered to cure the pain.

Shortly after the treatment Mr. Baer discovered how well he had been healed.

At 6:30 o'clock a call came to the office of Sheriff James Deal notifying him of the robbery. By the time the call was received however, the main part of the caravan had passed through Marion and had not been seen by officers of the sheriff's office. Making a hurried call to Caledonia the sheriff obtained a description of the woman.

Cars Rounded Up

Three cars of the caravan were found here later. Six more were apprehended in Hardin County about 10 o'clock.

After returning the six cars with their occupants to Marion, the entire band of 41 persons was herded into police headquarters where an attempt was made to pick out the "healer."

After an hour's grilling by sheriff's officers and members of the police department a suspect was picked out but Mr. Baer was unable to positively identify her.

Sheriff Deal stated this morning that he was positive that the guilty person had been selected but due to the in...

Grain Belt Representatives in Washington Elated Over Indiana Results

HAPPY OVER RURAL VOTE

Hoover Managers Mask Disappointment in Closeness of Contest

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Star Staff Correspondent

Washington, May 9—Both sides managed to extract some degree of satisfaction today out of the Indiana's hectic primary election, which saw Herbert Hoover's presidential aspirations receive their first major set-back of the pre-convention season.

Incomplete returns, supplemented by private advices reaching Washington this morning, indicate that Senator James E. Watson carried the state by a small but substantial margin of around 20,000 votes, and thus acquires Indiana's 33 delegates to the Kansas City convention.

The Indiana contest was hailed as the best real test of Hoover strength in pivotal and doubtful territory. Before the balloting, the Hoover managers had asserted that if Hoover carried the state "it would be all over but the shouting," and, conversely, the anti-Hoover "allies" had asserted that if Hoover could be stopped in Indiana "he will be stopped at Kansas City."

Sorely Disappointed

The Hoover managers had been confident of repeating their Ohio victory in Indiana, and they were sorely disappointed today as the slowly-trickling returns pointed to Watson's victory. Even the refusal of Hoover's Indiana manager to concede the defeat did not console them much. However, they masked their disappointment somewhat by pointing to the closeness of the contest, and stressing the magnitude of the task which Hoover staked out for himself when he tried to beat such an efficient machine as the Watson organization, too, out of the fact that Hoover clearly carried some of the industrial sections of the state.

Grain Belt Pleased

The Hoover defeat was particularly gratifying to the grain belt representatives, nearly all of whom are opposed to him. They have always accused Hoover of fixing the wartime price of wheat, and they have always attributed President Coolidge's opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill as due in no small measure to Hoover's counsel. Watson, on the other hand, was one of the framers of the bill and led the Senate fight for it.

Consequently, with the apparent defeat of Hoover in Indiana due solely to the rural vote, they renewed their assertions today that Hoover is unpopular in the farming regions which are necessary to a Republican victory next November.

CHAMBERLIN'S MARION VISIT IS CANCELLED

Former Flier Not Coming Here, Committee Chairman Announces

SUPPORT LACKING

Small Ticket Sale Causes Junior Chamber of Commerce To Drop Project

Clarence D. Chamberlin's visit to Marion, scheduled to take place on May 15, has been cancelled by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Announcement of the cancellation was made today by Charles Whysall, chairman of the airport committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce under whose direction plans for the aviator's visit were being made. Decision to cancel the visit was reached at a meeting of the committee last night.

Whysall said this morning that lack of public interest as evidenced by the poor ticket sale had prompted the committee to drop plans for the celebration here. A report at the meeting last night showed that 50 tickets had been sold since being placed on sale more than a week ago.

Guaranty Complete

The $1,000 guaranty necessary to bring Chamberlin here had been entirely underwritten by local merchants, business and professional men. The fact that the guarantors probably would have been forced to meet a large portion of the expense connected with the Chamberlin visit was one of the chief contributing factors in the decision to cancel the visit, Whysall said.

"Although we have been unable to bring Chamberlain here in the interest of an airport for Marion," Whysall said this morning, "the airport committee expects to redouble its efforts to obtain a flying field for the city."

For the present the committee will direct its attention toward marking the city as an aid to fliers.

Letters Ordered

Announcement was made today that the Marion Kiwanis Club has ordered from the Airway Markers Co., sheet metal letters for marking the name of the city on the roof of one of the larger buildings of the city. The letters, which are 10 feet in height, will be painted a brilliant orange and will be visible from a distance of 3,500 feet. Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will install the letters.

Another project now under way is the marking of a field, belonging to the Marion Water Co., located along the Erie railroad west of the city. It is thought that the method of marking the field with the word "Marion" has never been used before. Letters, 25 feet high, are to be formed with stone from a gravel pit owned by the water company. The letters will be painted white and will be visible for practically a mile.

With the completion of the marking program now being carried out by the Junior Chamber, Marion will be one of the best marked ...

Gubernatorial Races So Split, However, That Conventions May Decide Nominees

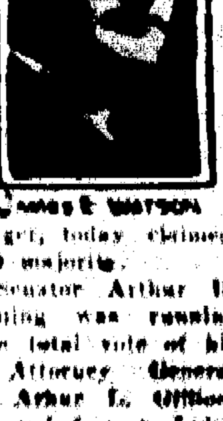

BULLETIN

Indianapolis, May 9—United States Senator James E. Watson was steadily increasing his lead over Herbert Hoover for Indiana's 33 votes for president as returns from yesterday's primary election were compiled this afternoon.

Unofficial returns from 2320 of the state's 3,810 precincts gave Watson 135,700 votes and Hoover 124,888.

* * *

Indianapolis, May 9—United States Senator James E. Watson apparently has defeated Herbert Hoover for Indiana's presidential indorsement on the basis of unofficial returns received today from nearly two-thirds of the state's 3,810 precincts in yesterday's primary election.

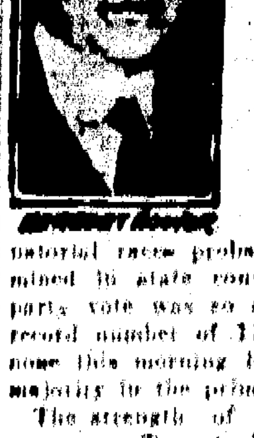

JAMES E. WATSON

Reports received early today from 2,010 precincts gave Senator Watson a lead of about 8,000 votes over the secretary of commerce. The totals were: Watson, 103,466; Hoover, 95,046.

M. Burt Thurman, Watson manager, today claimed the state by 25,000 majority.

United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson this morning was running two-to-one over the total vote of his two opponents, Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom and former Judge Solon J. Carter, and probably was assured of renomination.

HERBERT HOOVER

Albert Stump was leading Walter Myers, his nearest opponent, more than two-to-one for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Both Republican and Democratic gubernatorial races probably will be determined in state conventions, for the party vote was so split between the record number of 17 candidates that none this morning had the necessary majority in the primary struggle.

"I thought how fine it would be if she could only escape from these hills and all day long I've been wondering if Uncle Charley made a will when he discovered he wasn't going to have time to sign a deed. I figured, of course, that the reason he went up on Bogus was to tell her all about my offer, and to make plans for her future when the money should have been collected . . . poor old duffer. I don't think he had a very happy death."

Tony Garland looked at John Thurlow with new interest. "How long is it since you introduced yourself to Miss Dale?" he demanded.

"About two months ago."

Garland's quizzical little smile robbed his next sentence of the least tincture of impertinence. "You've been a trifle bashful or dilatory or hesitant, haven't you, Mr. Thurlow?"

"I see what you're driving at, Ranger. You're a man of considerable penetration. However, I figured I'd turn this Uncle Charley deal before commencing my visits to Bogus. I had a little money but not enough—and I didn't want to court that girl until I could—I wonder why the devil I'm confiding all this to you?"

"Never mind why. You wanted to close this Uncle Charley deal so you could play the prince to Cinderella. Wasn't that the way of it?"

Thurlow nodded, embarrassed a little.

"You're a mighty decent chap, Thurlow, and on Miss Dale's behalf I thank you for your chivalrous attitude. And I'm almost sorry you've lost. You have lost, you know. You'll have to forget your dreams because I'm ... hired boy on Bogus."

Thurlow studied his boot-tips a minute. "Got the inside track on me, eh?"

"Yes, but the information is confidential."

"I think you're much too lucky for a forest ranger."

"I am. And she's out of luck. I thought I ought to tell you now before you began dreaming more dreams."

"Thanks."

"Now that we've settled that issue," Garland resumed, "are you still willing to play the prince to Cinderella, if opportunity offers?"

"I'd do anything in reason to make that girl happy. I think I'd loan you money, if I had it, to marry her and take her away from Bogus. I've heard all about her. She wants to escape. She's hobbled—caged. She's breaking her poor heart against these eternal hills."

"You're very kind and very splendid," Garland said. "I want to be your friend. Won't you shake hands with me on that?"

They shook hands—Garland enthusiastically, Thurlow gravely.

"When I trust a man I trust him all the way," Garland continued. "I'm going to trust you. Read that." He handed Thurlow Uncle Charley Canfield's last will and testament, unsigned.

"It isn't signed," Thurlow reminded him.

"Uncle Charley died before I could get him to make his mark."

"There were witnesses present?"

"Two men. I wrote that document."

"None but the brave deserve the fair," Thurlow assured him. He spread the paper on the counter and with a pencil made a shaky little cross where the signature should have been. There was no humor in his eyes when he handed the paper back to Garland. "That's Uncle Charley Canfield's will, Mister Ranger," he announced, "and if you love Monica Dale you'll file it for probate immediately—provided, of course, you can induce the witnesses to sign as such. How about those two men? Are they human beings?"

"I think they are."

"When you get their signatures as witnesses on that document you'll be certain of it, my friend. Now, listen to me. The Hercules Hydraulic Mining Company wants that property, and a man as smart as you appear to be should realize that when the superintendent of the Hercules Hydraulic Mining Company tells you that and offers to suborn a forgery, it is obvious that he stands between his love and duty.

"Unless you file that alleged will, Jethroe, the president of this company and my superior officer, will see to it that the public administrator files an application for letters of administration on Uncle Charley's estate. That land will be appraised at about $5 an acre, perhaps less, and with the court's sanction, Jethroe will buy it himself from the estate and resell it for about half a million dollars perhaps more, to the Hercules Hydraulic Mining Company.

"If you file that alleged will, however, nobody will contest it and when the property comes into Miss Dale's possession, as Uncle Charley desired it to, Jethroe will buy it from her—but at a price I shall set."

"I said that when I made up my mind to trust a man I trusted him all the way. I must withdraw that remark inasmuch as it applies to you. I may not trust you. You are on Jethroe's payroll and you must not double-cross him. If you'd do that to him you'd do it to me. I am a lawyer by profession and I know enough of the law to obey it. That is not Uncle Charley's will and I cannot go into court with clean hands and petition for letters of administration on his estate."

"Think it over, my friend," Thurlow urged, and without the formality of saying good night he went back to his office.

Garland finished his belated meal and dragged his tired body to the certain discomfort of a knotty bed in the Dogwood Flats hotel. As he sat on the edge of the bed, thoughtfully rubbing his toes before retiring, he told himself that he liked John Thurlow. There was a boyish, naive quality about him, a wholesome masculinity withal.

"He suggested that I should do something crooked, dang ... him," Garland soliloquized, "and yet, for all that, I can't help thinking ... honest, decent ... [illegible]

Judas priest, I'm glad I didn't have the tremendous business deal on when I met Monica Dale! I wonder how the devil it happened? I know a girl two days—and two minutes after I first met her I'm cursing my poverty because it bars me from asking her to marry me—and then, without exerting the least effort, we find we're sweethearts and loving each other as dearly as if we'd bee sweethearts in school. . .

"Of course Bob will sign as a witness to that will, but the sheriff may not. He takes his legal duties seriously . . . oh, damn this legal hair-splitting. That, and not a sane interpretation of the law, is the curse of the profession I have abandoned—and now I've been pitch-forked back into it . . . . Lord, I'm tired . . . If the sheriff will only see this thing in a sensible light . . ."

He got into bed and drew the covers up around him. "I'll make a most exhaustive search for that lost deed," he thought drowsily, "and then, if we can't find it . . . yes, I like that man Thurlow. He's a quick thinker . . ."

OPPORTUNITY

PUBLICATION of a booklet giving a history of the increase of real estate values in Columbus from 1812 up to the present time has attracted considerable attention among Marion realtors and merchants. The general opinion is that it would be worth while and decidedly interesting to get something of the sort here.

The title of the Columbus booklet is "Myself and the Lucky Moment." The "lucky moment" refers to the opportunity of buying Columbus real estate, which some citizens were wise enough to grasp and others let go by.

It's an old story with two endings. With the who fellow feared to see his chance it is, "If I had only known" while with the one who bought property it is "And he lived happily ever after."

Old residents of Marion, and some not so old are frequently heard commenting upon how they could have bought certain property for a tenth or less of its present value; how they could be independent financially now if they could have foreseen Marion's growth.

One well-known real estate dealer began to buy up West Center st. property about 15 years ago. He paid what was then regarded as an inflated price. But his holdings now are worth a value or more than his original investment.

It is a well known fact that the man who is not courageous enough to "take a chance" rarely accumulates much in the shape of this world's goods. In buying Marion real estate, however, experience is shown that the element of chance is very small. It has gone up in value steadily in the past and will continue to do so in the future, realtors and others in touch with the situation declare.

GETTING WISE

SALE of stocks and other securities of dubious value or no value at all is on the decline in Ohio, records show. This is due almost entirely to two causes. One is close state supervision of such investment offerings and the other is past experience of the investing public. The latter is probably the chief reason for passing out of the worthless securities.

Marion residents have had a large share of this costly experience. Local banks and others conversant with the record here estimate the losses to Marion investors at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It was not until this class of "investments" had been marketed here for many years that the awakening came and local residents began to keep a watchful eye on their savings. First came get-rich-quick schemes in the form of gold and silver mines and other alluring projects. Large sums went from here into the hands of promoters of these enterprises, which as a rule had about as much chance of producing gold and silver as a mud puddle on a back lot.

Oil promoting schemes attracted another big percentage of the money that never returned and various other schemes hatched in the fertile minds of stock manipulators completed the clean-up.

Without knowing it, those who sunk their coin in these ventures were performing a real service for posterity. Their experience serves as a warning which is now showing results in increased savings accounts and home-owning.

POLITICS STIRRING

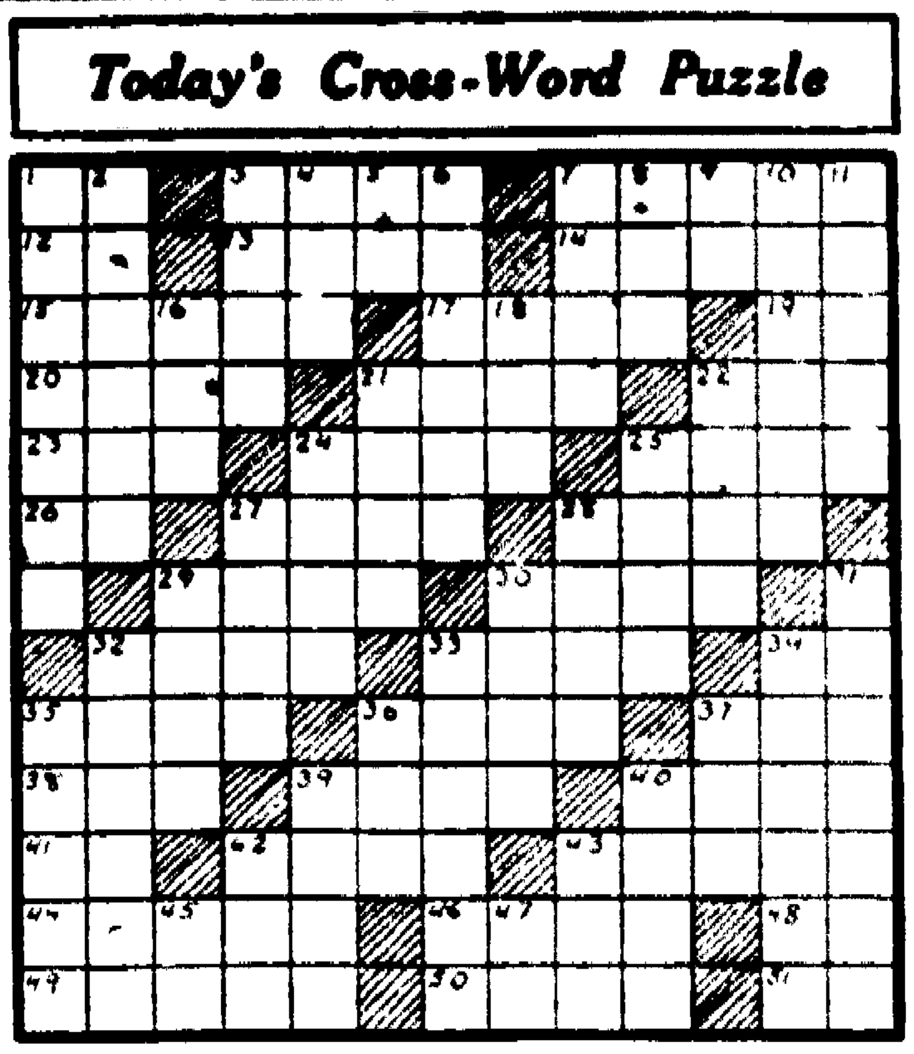

THE opening gun of the Democratic campaign in Marion County was set off at a meeting held here last night with Congressman Martin L. Davey, candidate for governor, as the chief gunner.

This was merely a quiet forerunner of the more spectacular gatherings to be staged by both parties later in the year, local leaders say. This campaign, it is generally predicted, will be one of the liveliest on record in Marion County for many years. This is based not only on the fact that state and national officials are to be elected but on the local situation as well.

Indications are that the field of candidates for county offices will be of exceptional proportions. A large number of declarations have already been filed and many more are certain to be added to the list before the filing time expires in June.

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Princess Olina and Mary Under the Same Roof

"AUNTIE MADGE! What's all this about? Is Eleanor Lincoln going to camp down here for the rest of the summer? Because if she is —"

Mary Harrison's face was flushed and her eyes gleaming with something which had both temper and nervousness in it. Knowing that it would be most unwise, as well as a distinct breach of faith to tell her the secret of Eleanor Lincoln's identity, or the real reason for the royal guest's presence in the farmhouse, I saw that I had a difficult task before me in reconciling her to Olina's sojourn with us.

Of course I knew the real reason for her color, and I could not blame her for her apparent churlishness. I did not need actual words to know that Philip Veritzen had made giving up Noel the price of keeping her on as his dramatic protege, after her confession that she had deceived him in her appearance as the masked dancer. I knew also that my employer in pursuance of his insane plan to marry his son to Princess Olina, was providing frequent opportunities for the two to meet. It was the prospect of seeing Noel in attendance upon Eleanor Lincoln which was torturing Mary. With a little grim setting of my lips I resolved that at least I could limit those social amenities until the menacing Sergus was disposed of, and it was safe for Princess Olina to return to The Larches.

I crossed to the mutinous figure of my husband's lovely young niece and took her into my arms.

"Mary, dear, will you trust me?" I asked. She stood stiffly rebellious for a few seconds and then melted against me.

"Of course I will, dearest," she said. "I know I'm an awful egg, but you don't know——"

"Yes, I do know," I returned. "know far more than you think, and some time when I get what Lillian calls 'an off day' I'm going to straighten things out. But just now, I can't tell you anything—can't do anything except to ask you to trust me, to shut your eyes to anything queer which you may observe, to treat Miss Lincoln as nicely as you possibly can, and to believe that it will be but a few days before she goes back again to The Larches. I'm going to tell you this. ... [illegible] care. I'll play your game. Only—please don't have either Noel or George hanging around any more than you can help. Boys are an awful nuisance when there's anything important on hand."

My heart ached at her bravely flippant attempt to conceal the misery which I guessed was her portion in these days.

"I already have thought of that, Mary," I said, and then Lillian's knock sounded on the door, and Mary comprehendingly hurried out.

Lillian locked the door behind her and sank into the nearest chair as if utterly spent.

"Blessed is youth!" she apostrophized. "You've worked harder than I have, and you look as fresh as five little daisies—count 'em—five. I see you have the lady safely tucked away in the guest room with a don't disturb sign on her door."

"She needs it," I returned. "She's been through a good deal today, and she really was wonderful at the revelation, which must have distressed her sorely. Did you get hold of Dicky?"

"Yes, after hours of wrestling with long distance. He's catching the first train home. I couldn't tell him the truth of course, and he surely is up in the air at my ambiguous summons. I don't know whether he imagines you've eloped with Jim or Katie's suing him for breach of promise. But he's winging his way through the upper ether into which, incidentally, old Phil has ascended since I gave him an inkling of what is up. He's in the library now, demanding to see you. Better go down and see if you can calm his troubled spirit."

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY was Wednesday, and some time in the night the wind jumped off of the earth and took the clouds with it and there was not any rain, and there was not any clouds, and it was almost warm again when I let Jesse down by the rope in his teeth.

By the time I had fixed the fires and had milked, and fed my face and got outside the run was up, and the world was covered with twigs and branches and there were a lot of birds nests and little dead birds on the ground. The women were out in the yards raking them, and when we got to Younisses house there was a limb to their tree that must of got loosened in the wind and then this morning after the sun was out it had leaned over and over and over, till the brushy part of it covered their front door and the big end of it was still on the tree. Younisses mother asted us if we couldn't drag the branch away, and we said it would have to be cut from the tree first. The next I knowed the Lost Bag of Tripe had asted Younisses mother where the saw was and he had clumb up the limb and was sawing it off where it was broke close to the tree, and all of us got hold of the branches ready to pull as soon as it was loose from the tree. It was easy sawing because the weight of the limb helped, and all of a sudden it came loose from the tree and let go and there was a yell, and the Lost Bag of Tripe was rolling over in the mud under the tree where there was not any sun. That was the first that any of us had noticed that he had sot on the limb whilst he sawed it off. He is not so very bright. He was a sight.

Younisses mother made the Lost Bag of Tripe go in and go upstairs and take off his clothes and wash himself and put on a suit of Younisses. She told us to tell the teacher how it happened and that as soon as the Lost Bag of Tripe's clothes got dried out he would be to school, but he told her he would just as soon go to school in Younisses clothes if she would loan them to him. Younisses mother looked surprised, but told him to go ahead. The Lost Bag of Tripe was walking down the street and we were all back of him hoorawing him, when a man came along and told us we ought to be ashamed of ourselves. He put his arm around the Lost Bag of Tripe and told him not to mind us rude boys, and the Lost Bag of Tripe put his arm around the man and snuggled up to him, and we hollered more than ever. Then the Lost Bag of Tripe made out like he was crying, and the man gave him a half a dollar and went all the way to school with him. When the man kissed the Lost Bag of Tripe at the gate, he took off his hat, and said, "Goodbye, you poor old stiff!" We all thought the man was going to have a fit, and he thought we were all boys and he gave Feeble a hist with his foot that almost sent her over the fence. She was certainly surprised.

The Lost Bag of Tripe got sent home.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth, its energy, its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver causes poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Of 1286 Brides 1240 told us this . .

Lovely hands . . . will they stay lovely, in spite of housekeeping cares?

A WHOLE week's "crop" of new brides—in 11 cities*—more than 1,200 of them—told us their home-making plans.

Each plan was different, of course. But on one thing these brides were agreed.

They are going to take up housekeeping as a job which requires intelligence and skill. Yet one to be filled without sacrificing charm and GOOD-LOOKS.

And 96 out of 100 of these brides have decided on one way to do this—

Because they know—from using Lux to wash their own fine things—how white and soft Lux makes their hands, they plan to use only Lux for all DISHES, all cleaning their hands have to do.

OBSERVE NEIGHBORS' DAY AT PEACE MEET

Canadian To Speak at "Good-Will" Luncheon; Eject Hecklers

Cleveland, May 9.—Today was "Neighbors' Day" at the American Peace Society centennial being celebrated here. Hon. Charles P. Beaubien, senator of Canada, was to speak at a "good-will" luncheon under the auspices of civic and commercial organizations. On the same list with Senator Beaubien were Hon. William E. Sweet, former governor of Colorado; Herman Berstein, New York author, traveler and journalist, and Dr. Paul Milyukof of Paris, France, former member of the Russian Duma.

Six commissions seeking a common ground to end wars, were to resume meetings during the day. The report of these commissions, due Friday, is being awaited with great interest.

The sixth general assembly of the conference on international justice was to be held at 3 p. m. to be addressed by Dr. Jesse H. Holmes professor of philosophy, Swarthmore College, Dr. Elizabeth Wallace, professor of languages, Chicago University, and Senor Don Orestes Ferrara, Cuba's ambassador to the United States.

Eject 13 Hecklers

The seventh general assembly will be held tonight with scheduled address by A. C. Klumph, former president of Rotary International, Senor Dr. Don Alejandro Cesar, Nicaragua's minister to the United States; Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's minister to the United States, and Cosme De La Torriente former ambassador from Cuba to Spain and the United States.

During the fifth general assembly sessions here last night, hecklers frequently interrupted the speech of Dr. Paul Milyukof and it was necessary to eject 13 men and six women when the uproar din drowned out Chairman Theodore E. Burton's gavel. Milyukof denounced the present Russian government and calmly finished his address despite the uproar.

Praises Kellogg Treaties

Rev. Dr. Gill Robb Wilson, national chaplain of the American Legion, speaking before last night's assembly, advocated use of part of the money received by the United States on its foreign debts to establish scholarships in America for students in other lands, as a means for promoting international friendship.

In a plea for the outlawry of war, Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court traced the rise of the conception that the war-making power belongs to the people and not to kings. She urged that nations observe the "Ten Commandments."

Judge Allen praised the Kellogg treaties and delared that while the "Kellog proposal may not be accepted verbatim by the great powers, its mere statement constitutes an amazing advance toward the establishment of world peace."

JUDGES ARE NAMED FOR BEAUTY CONTEST

More Than Score of Entries Expected in Competition Thursday Night

... a score of young women ... be entered in competition ... of "Miss Marion" when ... takes place at Rainbow Gardens, east of Garfield Park, Thursday night, sponsors of the contest estimated today.

It was announced that the judges will be Miss Mary P. Kelly, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, George T. Geran, city solicitor, and Charles Mittenbuhler, manager of Hotel Harding.

The contest is being held under auspices of the Ohio Beauty Pageant and the same rules which govern that pageant, held at Cedar Point, will be followed here, the management states. Selection of the winner will be based on beauty of face and form, personality, carriage and poise.

Mr. Mittenbuhler was manager of Hotel Breakers at Cedar Point during the Ohio Beauty Pageant last year and had an important part in that affair.

The young woman chosen as "Miss Marion" will be taken to Cedar Point in August to compete with entrants from other cities in the state for the title of "Miss Ohio." Should the local girl be fortunate enough to win the state pageant she will be taken to the national pageant at Miami, Fla.

In addition to those who appear in the beauty review here the young women who were selected as "Miss Ashland" and "Miss Mansfield" will appear in bathing suits. This will give the local people an opportunity to compare the local winner with those who will represent neighboring cities.

REALTORS PRAISED

State License Law Described As Final Step in Eliminating Frauds

Commenting on the work done by the state board of realty examiners, of which J. W. Jacoby of this city is chairman, the Cleveland Plain Dealer under the date of May 4, declared editorially: "The real estate business is entitled to much credit for its determination to clean house. Not many years ago real estate frauds perpetrated upon the public were as serious as the spurious security deals of the early years of the corporate form of enterprise. Lots were sold in vacant pastures which purchasers were never able to locate, and misrepresentations were so common that the purchase of real estate involved a grave hazard.

"That situation happily obtains no longer and, happily also, the change for the better came not so much through legislation designed to protect the purchaser, as through the determination of the real estate men to put their business on a high ethical plane. The Ohio license law was passed to drive out the few undesirables who remained. The report of the board of examiners indicates that it is working expeditiously toward that end."

Keep your present car when you buy a new car

IF YOU are planning to buy a new General Motors car, why not keep your present car for the everyday use of the family?

A thousand educational and cultural opportunities are freely offered to the modern family, and the acceptance of them is limited only by the number of hours in the day.

As men have learned that minutes lost in transit are deducted from earning power, so the American woman knows that inadequate transportation exacts a heavy toll in time—and time is life.

For this reason General Motors believes it is contributing to sound national economy in encouraging the extension of two-car ownership. Enjoy this great advantage by keeping your present car when you buy a new car; or by adding another General Motors car; or by purchasing a used car from a General Motors dealer.

Whatever program you adopt, you may have the convenience of the GMAC Plan.

CAROL IS LEAVING ENGLAND IN HUFF

Unable To Learn Where Former Roumanian Prince Will Go

London, May 9—Prince Carol of Roumania was making preparations today to leave England, but just where he will go could not be learned.

He is rather wrought up over the British order expelling him from the country, according to friends. However, he has made no attempt at official expostulation which might in some way accuse the cloak of the government that he was using his temporary residence at Godstone as a base for disseminating propaganda.

He is welcome in France, provided he refrains from indulging in any practices similar to those which got him into trouble here, the French Foreign Office stated yesterday.

But should he attempt to go back to Roumania, he will find himself up against a stone wall. Government officials in Bucharest dismissed Carol's threat to return to Roumania as a "mere bluff," in view of the fact that the Peasant Party is reported as indifferent to his return and not in favor of backing him if he does.

BIG ARMOUR ESTATE IS PRACTICALLY GONE

Widow of Late Packing King Turns Over Estate To Settle Debts

Chicago, May 9—The once great estate of the late J. Ogden Armour, a few years ago rated as the world's richest man, has been practically wiped out in payment of his post-war debts, it was learned today.

Mrs. Armour, widow of the late packing king, and her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, and other relatives have turned over practically the entire estate, including beautiful Melody Farm, the family's Lake Forest homesite, to settle obligations of the late head of Armour and Co.

Under the settlement, which has just been agreed upon, Armour and Co. is free to dispose of 1,000,000 shares of Class B stock and 200,000 shares of Class A stock, which has been held by the company against loans to Armour for other investments.

At one time Armour owned 50 per cent of the $100,000,000 of common stock in Armour and Co.

The settlement of the late packing king's obligations to Armour and Co., was declared by F. Edson White, president, to be entirely satisfactory.

Mrs. Armour also waived claim to $6,000,000 of land warrants held against the Sutter Basin Co., which Armour organized as a land reclamation project in California.

URGES FARM RELIEF

Traux Declares Failure of Wheat Crop Will Demand Aid

Worthington, May 9—"The almost complete failure of the wheat crop will drive down the total value of Ohio farm crops for 1928 to the lowest point since 1879," Director of Agriculture Charles V. Traux said in an address to the Chamber of Commerce last night.

"This deplorable condition speaks eloquently for the urgent need of farm relief," he continued.

In 1927, Traux said, the total value of Ohio crops was $218,000,000. In 1928, the director of agriculture declared, the total value will go below the $200,000,000 mark, loss of some $287,000,00 as compared with the 1919 valuation.

KILL THREE BANDITS WITHIN 24 HOURS

Bullets Fly in Chicago; Two Are Victims of Policemen

Chicago, May 9 — An unidentified highwayman was shot and killed early today in a gun battle with police. He was the third bandit to be slain here during the past 24 hours.

Two were killed by officers of the law; the third was "taken for a ride" by underworld friends whom he is believed to have double-crossed.

The latest victim was shot down by three motorcycle patrolmen a few minutes after he and a companion had held up a "gold coast" street car and robbed the conductor of $10 in receipts.

That was at dawn this morning. Late last night a detective bureau squad surprised a bandit in the act of holding up a man under a South Side elevated structure. Cornered, the bandit opened fire, but was killed in the exchange of shots.

Killed by Gangsters

He was partially identified as L. E. Zimmerman, 28.

There were no marks of identification found on the street car bandit.

The other to die was Willie Jackson, fugitive Grand Trunk mail robber, whose body was found in an alley yesterday morning. He is believed to have been killed by gangsters.

All police involved in the bandit killings escaped injury.

Changing Times—Changing Costs

A few years ago you bought a dozen oranges and paid only about twenty cents for them. Today four oranges cost you the same amount.

You think nothing of the difference in price, although the product is identical. You recognize that changing times bring changing costs.

Gas is no different than other commodities—yet gas remains the same price.

Today it costs much more to bring gas to Marion than it did when oranges sold for twenty cents a dozen.

But gas is also worth more to Marion today—for only with an unfailing gas supply can the city attract new industries and hold what is here.

Marion is asked to face not a fancy but a fact, recognizing for the city's industrial welfare that

What Pavements Should Be—and why:

A good base is needed, as any building needs proper foundation.

Over this a thin layer of sand—a cushion. On top, paving brick—vitrified into the toughest wearing-surface man makes—and bound with asphalt between bricks.

So laid, paving brick—tough, dense, water-tight—is a surface water cannot penetrate. Paving not impervious to water—which absorbs or admits it through cracks—is surely damaged when the water, freezing, expands.

And a brick surface has resilience to withstand heavy-load shocks—or to contract and expand with temperature changes (as all pavement must) without cracking up.

No chemical changes take place in brick—either in laying, or after laid; no softening under heat; no loss of "life" with age. And it wears and wears—frequently 30 or more years.

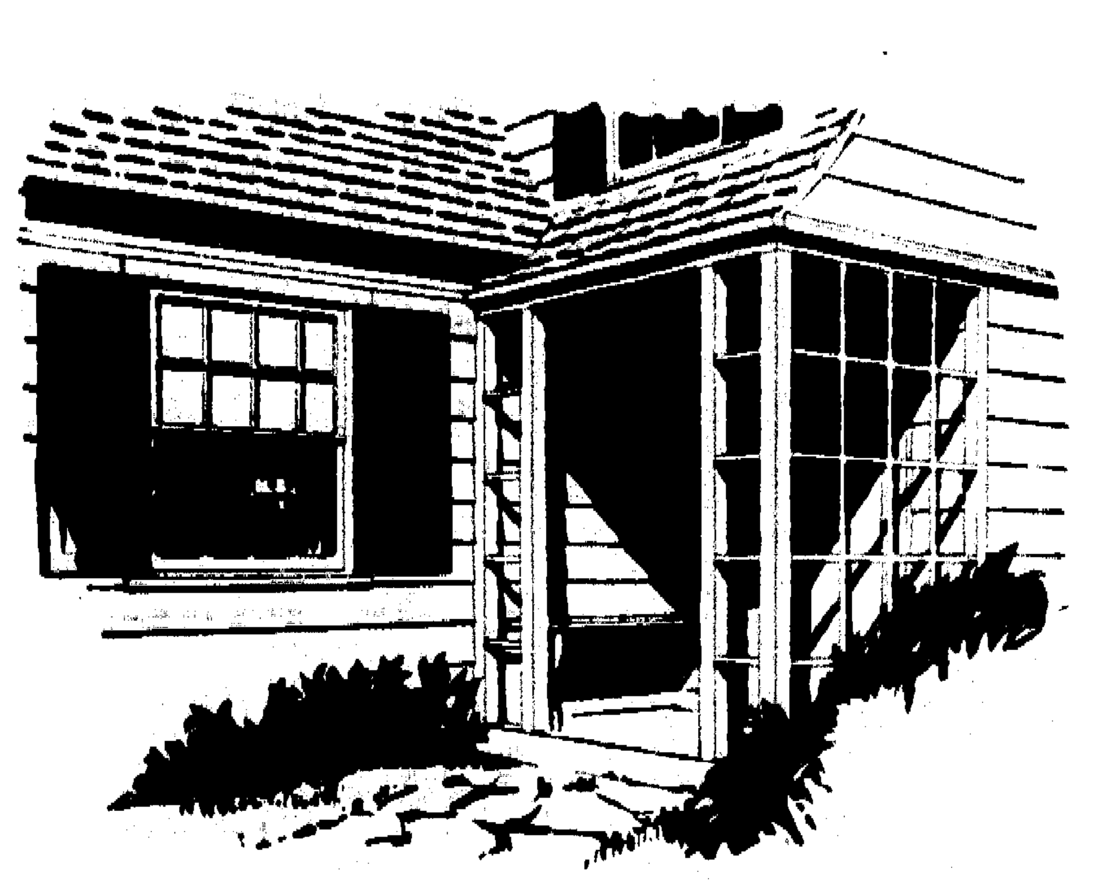

Futhermore, brick properly laid, smoothly level, stays that way; easy riding, safe, and good to look at. This combination means not only the highest value pavement money can buy—but also, in the end, the cheapest!

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 111 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

Marion Eagles Will Play House Of David Team Sunday

Hard Games on Book For Local Field

Bacon To Strengthen Nine for Hard Contests To Come

A hard schedule of games have been mapped out for the Marion Eagles baseball team the next six weeks with the House of David nine playing here Sunday afternoon.

On May 20 the Eagles of Elyria have been booked while Olds Motors of Toledo play the following Sunday. General Tires of Akron is to furnish the Decoration Day attraction at Lincoln Park and on June 10, the Akron Firestones play here. The feature game of the season will be played on June 17 when the Homestead Grays meet the locals.

The bearded gang of youngsters representing the House of David have been reorganized from last year and from indications made in games during the past several weeks, the team is equal to the one that played together several years ago.

In spite of their appearance from the shoulders up, the members of this famous team are real, speedy ball players who have had years of experience on the diamonds. Cave man looks are only part of the makeup when one considers their ability in handling the old club.

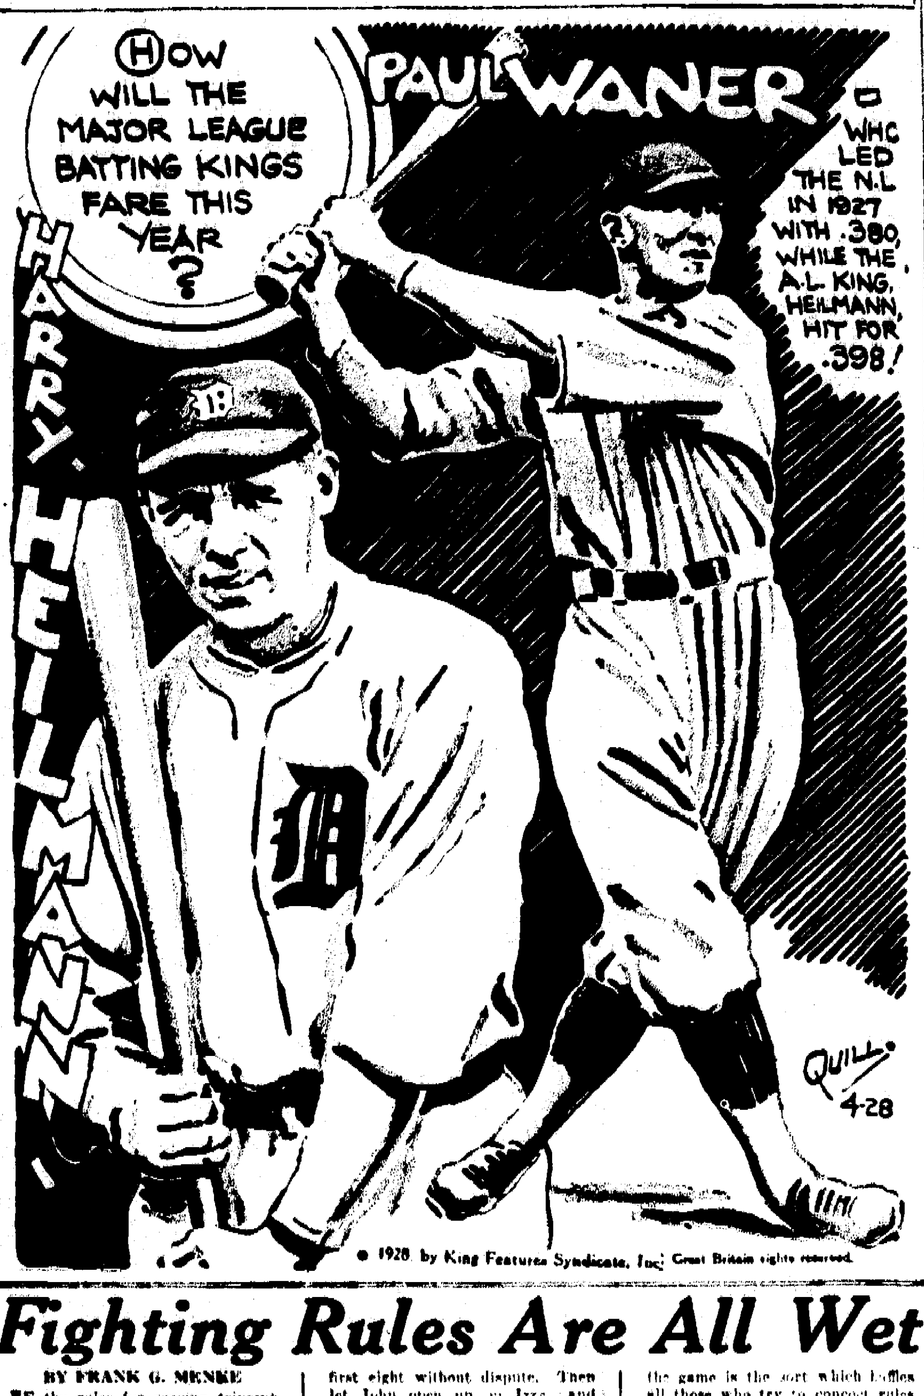

Sailor Sharrock, a former member of the House of David team who is well known on baseball circles in this section, will be with the Eagles for the balance of the season, it was announced today.

Every effort is being made by Manager Francis Bacon to bolster up his team for the tough schedule that is ahead. Every team being brought here is well known to fans.

The contest Sunday will start at 2:30 o'clock.

King George, whose enthusiasm for yacht racing is well known, has put up three cups for competition in England, Scotland and Ireland by yachts of three different classes during the forthcoming racing season.

Calvary, champions of Marion recreation ball circles last year, today is wondering what it is all about as a result of the first upset of the season.

St. Marys loomed as a possible contender for the title this year as a result of its 5 to 4 victory over the champs. Frericks was master of the situation throughout the contest, allowing but three safeties.

All games in Sunday School League No. 1 ended more or less as a surprise to followers of the game. The 7 to 1 victory of Epworth Seniors over Wesley came as an expected fact.

John Clark's class down at Epworth was given the first whitewashing of the season by Central Christians. The Christians managed to ease 10 runs across the plate before the seven innings passed into history. Nine errors aided the Christians.

Perhaps the best game of the first round was that between Presbyterian No. 1 and Trinity. Trinity won by a score of 4 to 3.

No games are scheduled tonight but Thursday night the Industrial teams will play. The schedule appears elsewhere on this page.

Philadelphia and Boston are the only American League clubs to capture six American League pennants.

Giants Drop 6 to 5 Fray; CincyInRace

Eastern Teams Have Some Tough Sledding; Battle Tightens Up

New York, May 9—New York, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, the three leaders in the National League race are only a few points apart today. The fast-stepping Pirates stopped the Giants and the Reds held on to second place by defeating Boston.

The American League scramble also tightened up when Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran of Yankee shortstops, came to New York with a Cleveland team that snapped the winning streak of the world's champions.

Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher who was traded to Pittsburgh by the Giants because he wasn't effective in the spring, pitched the Pirates to a 6 to 5 triumph over his former mates.

The eastern teams are having rough sledding in the west. Brooklyn has won but two games on the trip, Boston only one, and Philadelphia none.

Chicago Beats Robins

Three hits by Johnny Butler, who couldn't hit while with Brooklyn, featured Chicago's 4 to 3 win over the Robins. Percy Jones, who would rather play ball than loaf on the $500,000 he inherited recently, outpitched Jess Petty.

A burst of generosity on the part of Ed Brandt in the sixth inning, when he issued five passes, helped Cincinnati bury the Braves in a 7 to 2 landslide.

Six Phillies pitchers were unable to handle by the St. Louis Cardinals to the tune of 15 to 4.

Uhl Blanks Yanks

George Uhle seems to be about the only pitcher in the American League who has New York's number. He blanked the Yanks to four hits, and also whitewashed them 3 to 0. It was Pennock's first defeat.

The Athletics advanced to within two games of the Yankees by trouncing out the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3. Lefty Rommel turned in his first victory.

Bob Fothergill, who has been adorning the Detroit bench most of the season, has started to hit and the Tigers are winning. Robust Robert slammed out two triples, a double and a single as the Bengals smothered the Senators 12 to 2. The Tigers took fifth place away from the Nats.

The Boston Red Sox moved out of the cellar and the White Sox moved in when Ed Morris, Boston recruit from the Southern League, held the White Sox to four hits and trimmed them 5 to 1.

Fighting Rules Are All Wet

BY FRANK G. MENKE

IF the rules for scoring triumph in fistic brawls aren't all wrong—well, what's right?

Let's do a bit of assuming.

John Doakes is matched to swap smacks with Izzy Cohen over the fifteen round route. During the first seven rounds John beats up Izzy in most shameful fashion.

John sends Izzy to the floor twice in each of the first seven rounds. Izzy is so busy climbing up and going down again that he has no time left to do a little punching and swinging in his own behalf. And so John wins the first seven rounds by a margin as wide as the Grand Canyon.

Comes Back In Eighth

But coming out for the eighth John finds that he has tired. And Izzy, despite the socking he has had to endure, is fresher of the two. So Izzy proceeds to peck away at John and actually wins the eighth round.

Considerably heartened, Izzy becomes quite a tough mug in the ninth and succeeding rounds. He steps into John and hits him often—and oftener than that. He never drops John, doesn't even stagger him. But he outhits John two to one from the beginning of the eighth until the end of the fifteenth.

After which the officials do some counting, learn that Izzy won eight rounds, while John won but seven—and so they award the fight to Izzy who never hurt John in any of the 15 rounds, but who was almost murdered in the first seven.

Or reverse the proceeding.

Let Izzy outstab John for the first eight rounds. Give Izzy the first eight without dispute. Then let John open up on Izzy and knock him down two or three times in every one of the succeeding rounds.

Each Round Decides It

The count still would be eight for Izzy and seven for John, under the existing system where the happening in each round is the deciding factor—not the happening in the fight as a whole.

John, by knocking down Izzy a dozen times—or more—John who never was staggered himself and who only suffered some stabbing left hands for eight rounds, must be regarded as a better man than Izzy.

But he isn't so regarded by rules which make each round a unit of the whole and which provide that the man who won the greatest number of rounds is the winner.

Take another case.

Put the same John Doakes and the same Izzy Cohen within the hempen strands. And then let us assume that for 14 rounds and more than two-thirds of the fifteenth John slams and bangs Izzy all over the premises.

Now Then, The K. O.

John has won every one of the first 14 rounds by a wide margin. There is no dispute on that point. He has Izzy down a half dozen times and has completely rearranged Izzy's complexion.

Izzy, loser of 14 straight rounds, goes into the fifteenth reeling and staggering, knowing only one hope, having but one ambition—to stay the distance. And then, near the end of the fifteenth, in a scuffle in midring, he takes a dying swing which lands flush on the chin of John Doakes.

Izzy Cohen wins the fight.

Down goes John and John is counted out.

The assumption is that the winner is the better man. But if anyone can sincerely assert that Izzy, by swinging one wild punch, after being almost annihilated for 14 rounds, is better than Doakes—well, it must be one of the blokes who made the rules.

Strange things, these ring laws that determine the difference between victory and defeat in fistic encounter. But strange as they are, grotesque though they may be, they must remain that way, for the game is the sort which baffles all those who try to concoct rules that are fairer and more in keeping with the application of common sense and logic.

YALE MEN TRAINING FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Class of Famous Swimmers Workout Under Wizard School Coach

New Haven, Conn., May 9—Nine Yale undergraduates and two men who have obtained their degrees at Yale are in training here for the Olympic tryout at Detroit on June 22-24. The group will have two months of workouts in the great Carnegie swimming pool under Robert J. Kiphuth, Yale's wizard coach of water sports if opportunity offers will work also over a fifty-meter course outdoors.

The undergraduate candidates for the Olympic team are:

E. G. Cahill, New Haven; J. A. House, Jr., Cleveland Heights, O.; John Howland, Jr., Baltimore; Nelson W. Millard, Rochester, N. Y.; Lester Rappaport, Hartford, Conn.; Frederick M. Rickman, of Butler, N. J.; and W. F. Sanford, of New Haven.

The graduates are G. H. Laugner, of Milford, Conn., who graduated in 1927, and J. D. Bronson, Jr., Stillwater, Minn., who graduated in 1926.

The men still in college went through the season of 1927-28 without a defeat and set up many new records. They are considered as among the greatest swimmers the country has ever known. Kiphuth himself has been selected as one of the American swimming team coaches who will go to Europe this summer.

Kenton Man's Candidacy For Secretary Of State Launched

CARL W. SMITH TO SEEK OFFICE

Former Marion Editor Placed In Race at Democratic Meeting

Kenton, May 9—Although he has not as yet formally filed his declaration, Carl W. Smith, Kenton publisher, will be a candidate for nomination as Secretary of State on the Democratic ticket in August. Smith is a former Marion resident, having been editor of the Marion Tribune.

Martin L. Davey Kent, congressman from Ohio, and a Democratic candidate for nomination as governor, launched Smith's candidacy during a Hardin County meeting which he addressed here last night and pledged him his support.

For several weeks the Kenton man has been prominently mentioned as the most likely candidate for this office and during the last three weeks a concerted movement was under way in state Democratic circles to line him up for the August primaries.

In Race for Congress

Several years ago Mr. Smith sought the Democratic nomination for congressman from the Eighth Congressional district. He has been prominent in state and local politics for the last 20 years and is at present a member of the State Democratic central committee.

He has been engaged as a newspaper editor for many years and is at present editing and publishing "The Ohio Review," official Democratic organ. He is a veteran of the World War and active in state and local American Legion work. During 1927 he filled the office of chairman of the Americanization committee of the Ohio legion.

Congressman Davey's announcement of Smith's candidacy last night was enthusiastically received.

During his visit to Kenton, Davey addressed the luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, school students and the county meeting of Democrats.

It is estimated that 30 days will be required to build the station which is completely modern and much more efficient than the ordinary type of construction.

The house on the lot will probably be removed or set back to make way for the station which will probably be of stucco and with tile roofs.

Despite the widespread demand for a solution of the 10-year-old problem, the bill faced strong opposition from opponents of government ownership and backers of private leasing bills.

CLARA BOW SHOWS NEW SUMMER HATS

Popular movie star and possessor of "IT," illustrates, left, small cream colored felt hat with camellia blossoms forming the rim, center, plain beige colored felt hat with narrow brim and crown covered with clusters of gray silver tipped feathers, right, ancient symbol of good luck, consisting of Greek crosses which stand for luck, life, love and light, which should come in handy these days. Clara wears the good-luck design twice, once on her hat and once on her coat lapel, so she will be doubly lucky.

IN YOUR GARDEN

THE OUTDOOR LIVING ROOM

In the decoration of the private garden, aptly termed the outdoor living room, there is no longer any disposition by good landscape men to impose restrictions, political or traditional, except those laws of composition which govern the design of all beautiful objects. Here the individuality of the owners should be freely expressed and their demands fulfilled.

Experience has taught that the garden will be more satisfying if it be easily accessible from the living rooms of the house. It is a growing practice to link the outdoor living room as closely to the indoor as though they were under the same roof. For this purpose many houses are now especially designed, with the usual position of the rooms reversed and the kitchen in front, instead of in the rear, so that the living room, its porch and terrace, and the private garden may be arranged en suite.

The owner may desire his garden to be first of all a putting green, a croquet ground, or the setting for a swimming pool, or he may find his greatest pleasure in developing its beauty to the utmost, through the pleasing arrangement and skillful cultivation of its plants. In any case, it will be necessary first that his private garden shall be screened. This has finally been recognized generally by Americans as essential. The old idea that privacy in the garden was undemocratic died hard. But the spread of the conception that the garden is a picture destroyed the political dogmas of landscaping.

No one wants to make a garden picture into which extraneous objects such as the neighbor's wash, his flivver, or ash pile project themselves, to mar the carefully planned composition. Visitors may be friendly and willing to admire, but it is a strain on good nature to be compelled to explain how the garden would look were it not for the various ugly or inharmonious objects in the background. In order to create a picture, the artist must have complete control of his canvas, and this is obtained in the small home garden only by screening it in. This may be accomplished by a hedge, fence or lattice, or better still, a border of trees and shrubs. A border is most beautiful and suitable, but it is sometimes difficult on small grounds, because it takes up so much space. And so there is increasing use of tall hedges, walls and lattices about private gardens.

And within the screen, in the limited areas which are the rule in average American home grounds, we are beginning to develop gardens of a beauty and variety which good judges say are not surpassed in any part of the world.

General Motors and Radio Down to 200 After Nine-Point Drive

Markets at a Glance

Railroad stocks firm, industrial stocks irregular, domestic bonds steady, foreign bonds irregular (Japanese government bonds weak), call money 6 per cent, grain irregular, copper steady, sugar steady, cotton reactionary, rubber steady, pig iron steady, oil steady, foreign exchange irregular.

BY W. S. COUSINS

New York, May 9—The sharp pace of the forward swing of stock prices in the last week invited profit-taking and speculative selling, which would probably have come into the market today, if the call loan rate had not again been pushed up to six percent and the banks had not made the demands they did upon the money market.

With few exceptions prices of the industrial favorites began to slump at the beginning of trading. Professionals then concentrated heavy selling on General Motors, Radio, airplane stocks, motors and specialties, some of which put up a stiff resistance in the forenoon, but were finally compelled to give up the fight. General Motors and Radio sold close to 200 down about nine points from yesterday's high, and numerous two to five point losses were recorded in other speculative leaders on the same basis of comparison.

An increase in the weekly volume of freight car loadings was a favorable commentary on current business, and the upkeep of high operations in the steel industry was also an important factor. Steel ingot production in the first third of the year established a new four-month record, according to the Iron Age, which also reported operations of the steel mills at 80 per cent of capacity in Pittsburgh and 95 per cent in Chicago. Copper Metal was quoted at 14 1-4 cents, without concessions of any sort. Commodity markets were uneven.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Markets were quiet here today. Dealers reported buying normal with prices, in the main, unchanged from yesterday. Supplies of nearly all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables were available.

Strawberries continue to arrive on the market in comparatively small shipments. The supply, however, is ample to meet the demand, dealers said. The price is holding at 20 cents a pint or 35 cents a quart. Quality is better than the grade of berries offered the latter part of last week. As the season advances and berries come from localities farther north and out of the flood district, a better quality with possible lower prices is looked for by dealers.

New potatoes continue to sell at two pounds for 25 cents with smaller Florida varieties selling at three pounds for 25 cents. Old potatoes are showing less demand as the season advances. The price is holding at from 35 to 45 cents a pound.

Green beans were not so plentiful today and were selling at 25 cents a pound. Both asparagus and new beets were being offered at two bunches for 25 cents and new cabbage at 15 cents.

Tomatoes More Plentiful

Hothouse tomatoes are becoming more plentiful and were being offered at 25 cents a basket of between a pound and a pound and one quarter.

Pineapples were not so plentiful today and those on the market were selling slowly at 30 cents. Oranges and bananas continue to supply the bulk of the fruit demand, the former selling at from 50 to 80 cents a dozen and bananas at three pounds for 25 cents. Lemons were being quoted today at 30 cents a dozen, the low price of the season. Grapefruit are holding at two for 25 cents.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, May 9—An erratic wheat market, which developed strength in the latter part of the session, and a sluggish corn market furnished preparation for uncertainty today in trading before the government report is issued according to Herald and Examiner.

At the close wheat was 3/4@1 3/4c higher; corn was 1/8@1/4c lower; oats were 1/4@3/8c better, rye was up 1/8@1/2c.

It was a day of rumors that Arthur Cutten was buying wheat, that the Northwest was buying wheat, that Canada needs moisture. There were enough of these to put the market up from the start if there had been the volume of buying that they suggested was taking place.

But, as a matter of fact, the action of the market belied any heavy buying.

The big break cleaned out longs. The 8c upward reaction after that break has killed off shorts. Big traders may be waiting right now either to support the market or jump on it as seems most advantageous.

The reaction from the bottom of the big decline has brought prices back nearly half way. The market is right at the point where a good deal of caution will be wise.

Because the government report is pretty certain to be more bullish than the average of the private reports, shorts are not likely to care to remain short until it comes out. Their covering may be what has given the market its recent strength more than any new buying.

Further evening up today may carry the market higher, but a bulge might fade like a soap-bubble if the government report failed to show as much damage to the Winter wheat crop as is expected.

Corn acted disappointingly. For a market that has been brought up to the present level on the finest and richest bull "pap," its acts singularly feeble at times.

It may work higher, but from now on for the next couple of weeks it will have to show constantly growing strength to keep a good man of its supporters from bolding it good-by.

Corn Bulls Tiring

It is all well enough to point out that primary receipts have been this year 75,000,000 bushels greater than last and yet the visible supply is 3,000,000 bushels under a year ago, and therefore the demand for corn has been great. But the way in which corn continues to come to market from the country forces one to the conclusion that farmers are satisfied with the present price.

That satisfaction may be based on their intentions in regard to acreage increase this year. It is likely that a very big acreage will be planted and even though the crop on this cannot be available before November, the fact that the corn goes into the ground on such a liberal scale is likely to have a powerful sentimental effect on the price of the futures.

The latter part of May and the month of June often furnish the most satisfactory trading period of the year with markets wobbling up and down and getting nowhere. This year may be an exception, but keeping in mind the "dope," which is experience, is worth while.

In the cash market wheat was @ 3c off, corn was unchanged to 1c off; oats were unchanged to 1c off; rye was firm; barley was quiet.

SHOVEL CO. STOCK SOARS TO NEW HIGH

Reaches 82¾ Following Report of Stock Dividend Plan

Announcement of plans for a 100 per cent stock dividend for shareholders of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. created a heavy demand for the stock on the New York curb market yesterday, causing it to soar eight points to a new high of 82 3-4.

Stockholders are to vote on the proposed dividend at a meeting called for June 19.

The stock opened yesterday at 82 3-4 and closed at the same figure. The low for the day was 75 1-2.

CIRCUS ADVERTISING CAR IN CITY TODAY

Press Agent of Hagenbeck-Wallace Outlines Plans for Show Here May 23

Along with the soft breezes of a late spring morning and the desire to leave the office desk and skip to the country there appeared in the city today the surest sign that spring has come and that summer will soon be here. The official harbinger was the big red advertising car of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus and the first press agent of the season, announcing the coming of this circus to Marion on May 23, for both afternoon and evening presentations, on the Duke circus grounds at Fairground and Greenwood sts.

Fred Moulton, press representative of the circus, was very enthusiastic in his praise of the show this year, saying "it is as clean and as big as last season when it certainly was received with favor in Marion. Many new acts and features have been added that will start it up to the reputation of over a decade for good clean wholesome circus amusements."

As a courtesy to a large motion picture concern arrangements have been completed to take motion pictures of the circus and the circus crowd on Circus Day, during the hours from 11 o'clock in the morning until 2 in the afternoon. Moulton announced that persons wishing to be in the picture should be at the circus lot during the time specified. These pictures will be exhibited at the Grand Theater at an early date, he said.

For the convenience of those who wish to purchase tickets downtown, avoiding the crowd on the grounds, a downtown ticket office will be established at Barthen's drug store where tickets may be obtained at the same prices as at the ticket wagon.

The circus will be in early on Wednesday, May 23, for two performances with no parade, Moulton stated.

KONJOLA GAVE HIM RELIEF AFTER SIX YEARS SUFFERING

New Medicine Banished Stomach and Kidney Trouble For Another Cincinnati Citizen

MR. CLARENCE WATSON

"Konjola certainly ended my health troubles after six years suffering and I will always be glad to tell others about this wonderful remedy," said Mr. Clarence Watson, 257 Robb Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I have even gone to Hot Springs trying to find relief from a severe case of stomach trouble but nothing ever helped me. I became constipated and suffered headaches and dizzy spells from that ailment. Heartburn and gas bloating kept me in misery for hours after meals. My kidneys were weak and I also had slight attacks of rheumatism. You can see that my condition was in bad shape.

"I had faith in Konjola and that is why I gave this medicine a trial. I was rewarded because I am once more enjoying perfect health. My stomach is in better condition than it has been for many years and all the ugly symptoms have disappeared. I eat anything I want without suffering afterward. My kidneys are strong and normal and the rheumatism is completely banished. Konjola was a God-send to me and I shall always recommend and indorse it to others."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

ADMINISTRATION ON WAY TO VICTORY

Insurgents Rally to Regulars' Defense on Tax Reduction Limit

Washington, May 9.—The administration appeared well on its way today to a smashing victory in the Senate in its fight to place a $225,000,000 limit on tax reduction.

On the first three test votes, the Insurgent group rallied to the administration's defense and beat down Democratic proposals for greater tax reduction. The margin was close on all three votes, but the administration won and there were many indications it would continue to win throughout the tax fight in the Senate.

The surtax rates, bone of contention between the two major parties were to be considered today with prospects of a vote before nightfall. Both the administration and Democratic plans call for a $225,000,000 slash but the plans differ in extending the relief. The Democrats proposed a greater reduction in surtaxes on the brackets between $12,000 and $52,000 while the Republicans would grant greater relief to the brackets above $52,000.

Half of history is telling about the mistakes men make.

Nothing Amazing about this Battery Principle

Yet engineers agree that BATTERY BALANCE is the one all-important reason for battery dependability.

Every car owner will instantly appreciate why a really reliable battery must be based on this simple common-sense principle.

A SURPRISINGLY simple principle is Battery Balance. There's nothing amazing or hard to understand about it. Yet it is so absolutely basic that engineers everywhere agree that it is all-important in battery construction.

What Battery Balance is

Battery Balance is based on the recognized fact that every part of a storage battery is equally important.

To insure long and dependable service, every part of a battery must be designed right and built right at the very start. And every part must do exactly the right proportion of work so that no extra load will be thrown on any of the others.

This evenness of construction is Battery Balance. You can see for yourself the sound common sense behind it. And when you realize that the Exide Battery has perfect Balance, you can understand why an Exide gives such long and reliable service.

The entire scientific accuracy marks the construction of every part of the Balanced Exide.

Made by The Electric Storage Battery Company—for forty years builders of storage batteries for every purpose—the Exide is a combination of the finest materials plus long experience in blending them into a perfectly balanced unit.

When you purchase an Exide Battery, you purchase a battery that is not only built as a unit but also operates as a unit.

PREDICT NEW SIGNAL SYSTEM FOR RAILWAY

Automatic Block Plan Likely for Hocking Valley, Local Employes Say

Many employes of the Hocking Valley Railroad are predicting the system on the entire road will be equipped with an automatic block signal system.

Thousands of dollars each year, according to officials of the road, are lost through unnecessary delays caused by starting and stopping of trains that could be avoided if the present manual system is replaced.

The Hocking Valley yards at Columbus, it has been learned here, is being equipped with the automatic system. It is expected that it will gradually be extended north within the next few years.

W. L. Roler, engineer maintenance of way, is suggesting "the elimination of unnecessary safety stops for freight and passenger trains. These can be eliminated by the installation of interlockings at proper points. It is estimated that the Hocking Valley may save annually on delays to trains alone $72,000 by the installation of an interlocker at one point on the line."

He also says that automatic blocks will speed up operation and allow for a greater density of traffic.

Excursion to Cleveland

Visit Officers Here

Goes to Convention

Harley Hoover, assistant road foreman of engines of the Hocking Valley Railroad, passed through Marion yesterday on his way to Chicago, where he will attend the annual fuel conservation convention.

Officials Here

Visitors at Union Depot here yesterday were: L. R. Tolke, traveling agent of the four departments of the Chicago & Northwestern lines; William Bethington, Cincinnati, traveling passenger agent of the Union Pacific and R. W. Robertson, Cleveland traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific.

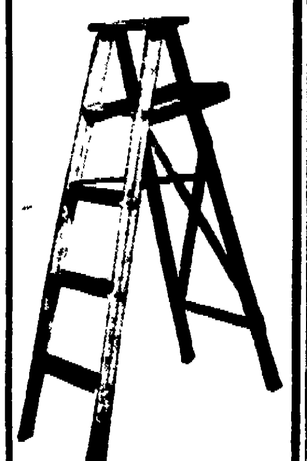

Excursion Sunday

The Erie Railroad will run an excursion to Chicago next Sunday morning. The train will leave Marion at 1.45 o'clock.

Test Shows 14 Per Cent of Marion Auto Brakes Faulty

Out of the 1,685 automobiles tested during the brake testing campaign conducted by the Marion Auto club in this city the last week in April, 100, or approximately 14 per cent, were found to have defective brakes, Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the club, said today.

Because of the interest shown in many of the cities of the state, the plan of establishing the campaign as an annual affair is now being considered by the state automobile association. In a number of cities the interest aroused was so great it was necessary to continue the campaign another week in order to give all motorists an opportunity of having their brakes tested.

Reports made to the state association showed that defective brakes ranged from two per cent to as high as 60 per cent of the cars tested, while the average for the state at large was 18 per cent. The highest percentage of faulty brakes was revealed at Portsmouth, were 2,500 cars were tested, while the lowest was at Xenia, where 5663 cars were tested.

Columbus with 5,143 cars tested came through with only eight per cent defective while in Cincinnati, brakes on 270 cars out of 6,741 tested were found to be imperfect.

Business Conditions Show Improvement Since First of Year, Report Discloses

Living Costs Gradually Declining; Wages Remain Comparatively High and Unemployment Is Disappearing, Board Declares

New York, May 9—Business conditions in the United States have shown improvement since the first of the year, particularly in the automobile, steel and building industries, according to monthly reports received by the National Industrial Conference Board from 2,000 manufacturers throughout the country.

Living costs are gradually declining, wages remain comparatively high, unemployment is disappearing and the purchasing power of the dollar is higher today than it has been for nearly five years, the board reports. The board is maintained by 30 national and state organizations for the purpose of exchanging information and experience and to provide a forum for discussion of matters of economic significance.

Food, Rent Cheaper

Food, rent and clothing are cheaper. The people are living better; they have more luxuries than ever. Savings banks are doing a prosperous business. Savings in banks, building and loan association assets ad life insurance premiums paid showed an increase in 1927 of 223 per cent per capita of population over 1914.

Measured by average living costs for the American wage earner, the dollar is worth, on the basis of living costs in March, this year, 62.1 cents in comparison with the pre-war dollar of July, 1914. It was lowest in July, 1920, when its buying power was 48.9 in comparison with the pre-war buying power.

The cost of living, according to the board's figures is today at the lowest point since June, 1923, when it was about the present level. There has been a net decline in living costs of 21.2 per cent since July, 1920, the peak of the post-war inflation period. This decline has been steady in 1926 and 1927.

Clothing Declines

Rent and food have come down appreciably. Retail food prices were 31.1 per cent lower in March this year than in July, 1920 and about 5½ per cent lower than in March, 1926. Rents, for the country as a whole, averaged 11.3 per cent lower than at their 1924 peak and 6.8 per cent lower than in March last year.

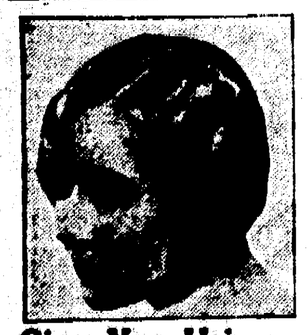

Clothing prices today averaged a net decline of about 40 per cent from their peak in April 1920, but have held fairly steady during the past two years. Coal prices averaged last winter 20 per cent less than at their peak in November, 1920. Gas and electricity have decreased 21 per cent since 1921 when these two items were at their peak.

The standard of living in America at present is better than it ever was and ranks above most other countries, it is indicated by the statistics compiled by the board.

CALEDONIA MAYOR'S CONDITION IMPROVING

R. B. Bell, Caledonia mayor and former assistant school superintendent in Marion County, was reported to be improving today following a heart attack, suffered while he was singing in the choir of the Memorial Methodist Church of Caledonia last Sunday.

It is said that contentment is better than riches—but most people are willing to take chances with the riches.

Gives Your Hair Unusual Beauty

The attractiveness of even the most beautiful women depends upon the loveliness of their hair.

Fortunately, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months. —Adv.

Her way blocked by a car standing broadside across the Lincoln highway, a short distance west of Valparaiso, and ordered to "hand over" by two bandits as one covered her with a shotgun, a Hoosier woman grabbed an automatic from a pocket of her machine and let loose with it to such good effect that the robbers ran, leaving their machine, the shotgun and a pool of blood behind them, which naturally makes us wonder at what she possibly could have aimed.

The Man Teacher.

In 1880 the United States census recorded 122,795 men teachers and 163,798 women teachers in the public schools. By 1925 the ratio was more than five women teachers for each man teacher—that is, 675,355 to 138,810.

This is not a very healthy condition of affairs, for it is everywhere recognized, without disparaging the value of the women's service, that boys and girls have something to gain from contact with men teachers, as well as from instructors mobilized from the opposite sex.

There are problems of discipline in which boys require the help, and particularly the example, of men, just as there are undeniably situations which apply to girls and women. There is an age when both boys and girls should be the beneficiaries of a pretty exact balance between the sexes in teaching staffs.

The need of more men teachers is professionally conceded by thoughtful observers who have no notion at all of questioning the nature, the content or the quality of instruction now given by women.

But there has been too much of a tendency to undertake solution of the problem by referring to the matter of salaries. More progress toward a real solution of the problem would doubtless be made by giving young men a sounder idea of the element of service which runs through one of the most fundamental of all the professions.

Congressional Thirst for Power.

In its apparently insatiable craving for added power, congress is again attempting to encroach upon the functions of the other two branches of our government. That it may and probably will be foiled in its attempt is a matter for congratulation to the country, but it in no way mitigates the repeated offenses of the legislative branch of the government in this regard.

A short time since an Illinois member—Representative Adolph J. Sabath, if our memory serves us correctly—introduced a joint resolution in the lower house of congress directing our diplomats abroad to refuse to assist any and all Americans in securing audiences at foreign courts.

Possibly our diplomatic officers might rejoice had they such instructions from the proper source, for the importunities in behalf of those seeking presentations at court must be very trying to our diplomats, but congress is not the proper source. The matter of issuing such instructions, were they to be issued, would be a function of the executive branch of the government and any attempt in that direction by the legislative branch is nothing more nor less than an impertinence. At least, it was so construed in one notable instance back in the administration of President Grant, when congress by a joint resolution directed the then secretary of state "to acknowledge a despatch of congratulations from the Argentine republic and the high appreciation of congress of the compliment thus conveyed." President Grant promptly vetoed the resolution, stating that "the adoption has inadvertently involved the exercise of a power which infringes upon the constitutional right of the executive."

A more recent offense was that of last Monday, when the senate approved a resolution requesting the supreme court to permit a radical organization to intervene in the pending O'Fallon railroad valuation case, the resolution being passed by a roll call vote of forty-six to thirty-one. The resolution, which was sponsored by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, asked that Donald R. Richberg, of Chicago, council for the "National Conference on Valuation of American Railroads," be allowed to intervene for the purpose of making an oral argument and filing a brief.

"With the senate already subjected to criticism for overstepping its constitutional power," stated the Washington wire relating the story of the senate's action, "the resolution stirred up a storm of opposition. Nearly a dozen of the leading lawyers of the chamber expressed themselves on the proposal, advanced for the first time in the history of the government, that the senate give advice to the supreme court in pending litigation.

"Senator Shortridge, Republican, of California, charged that the senate by its numerous investigations of the last few years has turned itself into a grand jury and otherwise exceeded its prerogatives. Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, launched the attack upon the resolution. Senators Fess, Republican, of Ohio, Bratton, Democrat, of Maryland, and King, Democrat, of Utah, also objected to senatorial interference with the judiciary."

Senator Norris was backed by Senators Walsh, of Montana; Borah, of Idaho, and Pittman, of Nevada, and, as was to have been expected it was supported by La Follette, Blaine, Couzens, Brookhart and others known as radicals or often found playing with them.

In opposing the resolution, the report goes on to say, Senator Reed and others insisted that they had no objection to the intervention of Mr. Richberg in the case and thought the supreme court would grant any proper request without advice from the senate. When Senator Norris sought action on the resolution Senator Reed inquired if there were any precedent for action of this character. Senator Norris admitted that no such request ever had been transmitted by the senate to the supreme court in the history of the government.

"I think a request from the senate to the supreme court is just as dubious in propriety as a request from the supreme court to us that we enact certain legislation would be," Senator Reed said. "I do not think it is proper for the senate to tell the supreme court how to do its business. For us to volunteer suggestions to the supreme court is indefensible."

Senator Fess asserted that the matter was of great importance inasmuch as the resolution proposed that one branch of the government should suggest procedure to a coordinate branch.

"The only part of this government which makes its different from any other in history is that each coordinate branch is independent of the others," he declared. "When this body, acting as a legislative body sends a resolution to the supreme court it is against the very genius of this government of ours. I very much deplore any action which would lead to an interference with judicial functions."

A few days ago, in speaking of dictators and dictatorships, we held out that there could be dictatorships other than those of an individual and we uttered warning that congress, and especially the senate, was seeking to exercise dictatorial powers not granted it by the constitution, and which, were it permitted to exercise them, would overthrow our present form of government and give us instead a legislative dictatorship. We offer here two instances in addition to the many preceding them in which the legislative branch of the government is seeking to establish precedents by which to make itself superior to the other two branches of the government which exist by virtue of our basic law.

New York City officials invented G. A. R., Spanish American and World war veterans, the Sixteenth infantry band and a color guard from that regiment of the regular army from parading the streets of that city to the tomb of General Grant on Riverside drive in commemoration of his 106th birthday anniversary, holding that religious and memorial parades were prohibited on Sunday by the terms of the New York state penal code, which is another illustration of the fact that we have too many laws of which far too many are of the asinine variety.

WHILE THE CAT'S AWAY.

Brainstorm a Mental Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

All the acquired mental diseases of youth are grouped under a general name. The particular condition I have in mind rarely attacks a person past twenty-five. I refer to what the doctors call "dementia praecox."

It is a sad thing to find a young person who has been well and strong, cheerful and normal in his mental processes, suddenly develop unusual and disturbing symptoms. The things which made him happy suddenly appear to bore and even to irritate him. A heretofore peaceful and calm individual develops "brain storms." In an attack he breaks the furniture, sweats and acts like a demon.

It is bad enough for one to die after a long lifetime of usefulness, but to die in youth seems a terrible fate. Any form of hopeless disease or insanity attacking the young moves us more than a similar misfortune met by the aged.

Dementia praecox is an abnormal mental state associated with the developing period of life. It is characterized by acquired weakness of the mental processes and by many perverted ideas. In alternation with the times of over stimulation of the brain, are periods of depression and sadness. There is mental alertness one day and great confusion of mind the next.

In dementia praecox it is not unusual for the victim to recite over and over, one single line of poetry. He may keep this up for hours. He performs the same act repeatedly.

A young person may be one of the most cleanly and well groomed of your acquaintances. Suddenly he becomes careless. He is negligent of his person and clothing. He is sloppy in his actions. This raises the suspicion of dementia praecox.

I have told you that this disease is acquired. The feeble minded youth has always been weak-minded. But the victim of the trouble we are considering was formerly bright and normal. The history indicates the difference between the two disturbances.

The onset may be sudden. Shock, fright or prostration, due to bodily or mental causes, may be followed by this disability. In other cases it is gradual in its onset and the course is progressive.

The acute and sudden type is the more hopeful of cure. It may take time to accomplish it, but recovery comes. The slow type is more serious.

The outcome of the case depends on the cause. If there is some underlying and removable physical disability, the case is most favorable. Sometimes there has been long illness or overwork. Recovery of strength and vigor brings mental relief.

The recent advances in this field have made us more hopeful in such cases. They must be studied with particular reference to localized infection in tech, tonsils, large intestines or other parts of the body. When the underlying physical disorder is found recovery follows its removal.

There must be careful examination of the blood and all the secretions. Until every test has been made no reliable estimate of the probabilities of cure can be attempted.

Rest in bed, proper nourishment, baths, massages and change of scene are important. More important is it to find the fundamental physical trouble and to get rid of this.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

SPARE THE WILD FLOWERS.

Winter retreats once more. The season of wild-flowers and fruit blossoms approaches. Likewise, the season of family excursions to the fields and woods and orchards, primarily to picnic, but incidentally to ravish those blooms upon which nature depends for the perpetuation of all plant life.

Extinction already so perilously threatens several of Minnesota's choicest flora, that the state legislature has found it necessary to forbid the sale of any species of lady-slipper, orchid lily, trillium, lotus or gentian, gathered or dug from state land, or from privately owned land without the owners written consent.

But this law against sale holds no terrors for the thoughtless thousands who go forth each year to pluck and uproot, not only the protected blossoms, but blossoms of every other sort, not to sell them, but to let them wither and die on the way home.

A wild flower or a fruit blossom, left alive in field, wood or orchard, delights the eye of every person who chances to pass that way. The same flower, plucked or uprooted, is snuffed and admired for a while in a dusty automobile, and then tossed aside the moment its petals start wilting.

But that is the least of the damage done by the thoughtless flower picker. The gathered blossom will never produce the seed essential to the perpetuation of its species. Every violet torn from the woods means fewer violets next year. And every flowering branch torn from an apple tree means fewer apples for the owner of that tree, not only this year, but for all the remaining years of the tree's life.

If we Americans were half as civilized as we let on to be, we would spend our holidays admiring nature's flowers as nature made them, and we would leave them as nature made them, and return to our homes with hands empty, but with minds loaded with memories of nature's marvelous beauties.—Minneapolis Journal.

"THE RIGHT STUFF."

A writer "on the inside" says of General Motors: "It has one outstanding problem, greater than any problem of sales, prices or supply: the problem of finding men big enough to fill its general offices."

What does that mean to a young man entering at the bottom? It means that the men above him will be constantly looking for signs of ability. It means that there is no limit to the heights to which he can rise, if he has the right stuff in him. The same is true of every other big business.

But what is this "right stuff?" Adaptability, persistence and patience. And the most trying of these is patience.

You don't find in the big men of General Motors, or any other big business, men who have aeroplaned from the bottom of the ladder to the top, save in occasional instances when father's power or other "pull" has done the lifting.

But this is the age of rush, the age of get-rich-quick, anyway, get somewhere, somehow, and there never before was a period so full of temptations for the young man to abandon his visions of a career.

One of the "signs of ability" for which the big fellows already at the top are looking is stickfulness. General Motors is mushroom-like in its growth, but it is run by fellows who served long and hard at something.—Columbus Citizen.

Santa Clara Astronomy.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

In the recently flood-swept and quickly resurgent Santa Clara valley in California dwells an amateur astronomer who has awakened among the prune growers of that fertile spot of earth a deep interest in the stars. From Mount Hamilton the great dome of Lick observatory looks down upon his home, and its telescopes might have watched the boiling waters turning the gold-green valley into a scene of desolation as they swept past his door. His name is Charles Edward Barns, and a little book, written, set up, illustrated and printed—all with his own hands—has come into my possession. It is called, no more romantically than its deserts warrant, "One Thousand and One Celestial Wonders as Observed with Home Built Instruments."

For its author is not only a star gazer, but a constructor of telescopes, as of books, with his own hands, working from foundation up. That was Galileo's way, because in Galileo's time there was no one to make telescopes for him. It was Newton's way, and Herschel's way. It is still the way of a few men, a very few, like Charles Edward Barns, even in this telescope-making age, because the joy of constructing the instrument is only second to that of using it.

Mr. Barnes makes telescopes of both kinds, i. e., reflectors and refractors—not, as far as I know, to sell them—and he freely gives away the whole process in his book, and shows how to test the work. After all, it is only a matter of patience, of great carefulness, of exquisite delicacy of touch and critical judgment of the eye—plus an internal urge to reach the stars on one's own wings. His book, so suggestive in its title of the "Arabian Nights," indicates why he has successfully invoked the call of the stars to the Santa Clara fruit grower.

The great observatories crown lonely mountain tops now because there they are in a purer and often steadier air, but astronomy in its unscientific aspects remains democratic and consociative, and dwells in the plains, and the valleys, where people live in close touch with nature and see the stars sparkling through garden trees or burning like signals over the bordering mountains. It was so in old Egypt, it was so in ancient Chaldea, where we almost think astronomy began.

California has doubly proved itself the golden land of astronomy. It has twice led the world with great telescopes—first with the Lick giant which it seems but yesterday was a marvel to mankind; now with the greater giants that tower and point heavenward further South. That it should be also par excellence a land of amateur astronomers is a manifest presumption of nature.

My Santa Clara amateur gives a quotation from Plato which seems to me worth wide reading.

"He who has not contemplated the mind of nature in the stars, harmonizing them with laws and institutions, is in nowise able to give a reason for such things as have a reason; and he who is unable to acquire this addition to ordinary virtues as a citizen can hardly hope to become a leader, but must forever be subordinate to others."

At least we all know the marvelous steadying power that contemplation of the starry heavens exercises over the soul.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Benjamin Goddard—Composer.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

One of the most distinguished of the French composers, Benjamin Godard, was born at Paris on August 18, 1849. He entered the Conservatoire at an early age, although he had previously studied the violin under Richard Hammer. At the age of nine he had appeared in public.

In 1865 his first composition, a violin sonata, appeared, and in 1866 and again in 1867 he competed without success for the Prix de Rome.

His first composition was followed by a number of songs, and some exquisite chamber music, which later brought him the Prix Chartier from the Institut de France for "merit in the department of Chamber music."

In 1878 he shared with M. Theodore Dubois the honor of winning the musical competition which had been instituted by the city of Paris, for the composition "Le Tasse."

From that time until his death Godard worked indefatigably at his composing. Among his works are included four operas, "Pedro de Zalamea," produced at Antwerp, "Joselyn," given in Paris, "Dante," also produced in Paris and "La Vivandiere" which was left unfinished and partly scored by another.

Others of his well-known compositions are the "Symphonie Legendaire," the "Symphony Gothique" and "Diane."

Probably the finest of Godard's compositions are his songs. His productivity was enormous and for this reason his compositions are more or less unequal.

His songs have been said to "bring the sympathies of the people nearer to the higher walks of art and give them an insight into its beauties." These songs gave Godard a wide-spread popularity and a warm place in the hearts of the people, being as they are, analogous to the German leider. It is more than likely that these will remain in the hearts of the masses when his more pretentious compositions are forgotten.

Godard's place in the realm of music is firmly established and his premature death at Cannes on January 10, 1895 was a decided loss not only to French art, but to the entire world.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 9—Every ocean liner nobody traveling incognito for the sole purpose of attracting attention. In the majority of instances it is the son or daughter of an illustrious millionaire who would never be heard of save for papa's jack.

Among all New York's publicity-seekers there are few so eager for the spotlight as those who have been afforded every vantage, but who can not even do a good trick. Keen realization of their inadequacies seems to overwhelm them.

Hundreds go in for a new wrinkle in art and give it the quaint name of "self-expression." An abused term. Singing in the bath is self-expression, but is it art? Some grotesque studios in Greenwich village, as well as the soul-hungry to sit about on the floor in the sputtering candle light.

Still others take up sculpting. So few of anything about the technique of this art that it offers a convenient camouflage for mediocrity. Others dabble in literature, writing sonnets and prose to ultra journals, often written by ghost writers.

Genius does not always flower in poverty. Innumerable sons and daughters of the rich have stepped and carved niches for themselves. Not all the society ladies are social blindfolded to show the world in advertisements they recognize instantly their favorite cigaret.

Yet it does seem those handicapped by a lack of advantages are more likely to etch their names on the immortal scroll. There were in the past year some twenty exhibitions at private galleries of the work of attention-attracters, and they didn't mean a thing.

There are violin, piano, voice and recitals at public halls almost every month which are filled for the one evening by friends, and nothing is heard of the "artists" again. The stage and movies, too, have claimed their quota of socially rich who expected to jump stars from their thrones. But didn't.

Three foreign journalists arrived in New York recently to fathom the undercurrents of Broadway and find whatever meaning there may be for civilization imprisoned there. The Broadway of popular imagination has no more significance than other high-living streets, whether they be in Shanghai or Indianapolis. Generally speaking, it is a high-ball and headache and a resolve to be a better boy.

It is said Sinclair Lewis has plans to write shortly a book whose theme is to be what makes Broadway tick. A difficult subject, and no novelist has been able to make much success of the idea. Perhaps the reason Broadway is not half so glamorous as pictured.

Washington square, Gramercy park, Fifth avenue, Wall street and the Bowery have been successfully novelized, but when writers take Broadway their efforts somehow fizzle. The business peeps through the glitter, just as Broadway does in actual life.

It was not until the play, "Broadway," came along that the White way was successfully dramatized, and yet that production of only sinister phase of the cabaret life that sprung up after prohibition. It in no wise traced Broadway as a whole.

Broadway is tricky to write about because of its amazing contrasts. Call it hard-boiled and you will be embarrassed the next day by some mawkish sentimentality. Picture it as a road of bow-wows, and you will be confronted by an army of those who have risen to take place from its gutters.

It wasn't long ago that it was established that the average time for completing a telephone call between Paris and Brussels was three hours, or 180 minutes. HOOVER IS DEFEATED BY SENATOR WATSON

U. S. Senator Robinson Winning Two-to-One Over Gilliom and Carter

Logansport editor, was the biggest surprise of the gubernatorial contest. He was running second only to Secretary of State Frederick E. Schortemier, the organization man, with Thomas H. Adams, crusading Vincennes publisher, third.

Heavy early returns from the urban districts gave Hoover a comfortable dead over Watson, but shortly after midnight the senator's strength in the rural precincts began to be heard from, sending him into the lead. Hoover swept the industrial district of northern Indiana, but was halted as he reached the agricultural plains of central and southern Indiana.

Hoover apparently has carried the following counties:

Allen, Elkhart, Grant, Howard, Huntington, Lake, LaPorte, St. Joseph, Wayne and Wabash.

Watson's Counties

Senator Watson was leading safely in the following counties:

Carroll, Clay, Daviess, Decatur, Fulton, Hamilton, Hancock, Hendricks, Henry, Jefferson, Lawrence, Marshall, Miami, Monroe, Morgan, Parke, Perry, Posey, Pulaski, Putnam, Randolph, Rush, Shelby, Starke, Tippecanoe, Vanderburgh, Vermilion, White and Whitley.

Although Frank C. Dailey, prosecutor of Truman H. Newberry was far in the lead in the Democratic race for governor, he had not established a majority. Next in order were John E. Fredrick, Kokomo Steel manufacturer, and Earl H. Crawford, Indiana Farm Federation official.

Grocers and Meat Dealers Plan Parade to Inaugurate New Co-Operative Plan

Public Demonstration To Be Held Friday Night by Serv-U-Well Market Members; Sales Program To Go into Effect Saturday

The Serv-U-Well Markets will be formally introduced to the public Friday night by means of a parade to be staged by the Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers Association and wholesale produce dealers, food distributors and manufacturers of the city.

The parade is being planned by the Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers Association as the first step in its program of co-operative wholesale buying and retail selling. So far as the buying public is concerned, the association's program will go into effect Saturday morning when housewives doing their week-end marketing will be greeted by a number of commodities at special prices at the Serv-U-Well Markets, it was announced.

Thirty-seven grocers and meat dealers of the city compose the Retail Merchants and Meat Dealers Association. The group has adopted the slogan, "Serv-U-Well Markets." The slogans, together with the name of the individual merchant, are being painted on windows of the various stores. As another means of marking the stores, each store front has been painted red. The painting of the fronts and the window signs is expected to be completed before Saturday.

"Unable to "stop" the wheels, the boys took to their heels and were not in sight when firemen from No. 2 and 3 stations, with Fire Chief McFarland from the central station, arrived on the scene. Questioned by the chief, other boys in the vicinity furnished the identity of the boy who had sent in the alarm and a few minutes later, a small boy, still more frightened than when he could not stop the wheels of the alarm box, was given a severe reprimand by the chief on the seriousness of sending in a false alarm.

The name of the boy was not revealed by the chief.

Meanwhile there is no response to the Japanese ultimatum in sight. Chiang Kai Shek's advance troops already have passed the area defined in the ultimatum and are enroute toward Tientsin, the vital commercial port of Peking.

Representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, United States and Japan are closely watching developments in Tokio in the hope that a declaration of war may somehow be avoided.

4,000 U. S. Men There

Naval advices from Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, commander of the Asiatic Fleet, whose flagship, the cruiser Pittsburgh, is now visiting Tokio on a courtesy call, confirm that the Chinese troops have pierced the last line of defense in Shantung and have thus opened an unobstructed path to Tientsin.

The United States has 3,000 marines and 1,000 soldiers at Tientsin and about 200 other men of both branches along the Tientsin-Peking Railroad. A marine legation guard of 500 men is stationed at Peking.

Hair Is Deceptive

A clever ruse used by the suspect in dressing her hair baffled officers for a time but when it was discovered that she had long flowing locks instead of the modern shorn tresses, as it appeared, it was thought that the mystery had been solved. Still, Mr. Baer was not positive that the suspect was the person sought.

The entire band was released at midnight.

In marked contrast the old-fashioned wagon trains formerly used by bands of wandering gypsies, the present generation travels in high-priced automobiles as those apprehended last night did. For them the day of horse-trading is past.

The present day gypsy eeks out a livelihood by telling fortunes, and at times healing pains. The latter at times proves profitable, and according to Sheriff Deal would have been remunerative last night had Mr Baer's wallet contained cash instead of non-negotiable papers.
